Harley - Appleby

A very pretty wedding took on Wednesday, June 6th, at the home of Thos. and Mrs. Appleby of Pinkham, Sask., when their daughter, Ruben Alverda, was united in marriage to Thos. C. Harley, of Monitor, the Rev. J. Biceon officiating.

Promptly at 4.30, the bride, wearing a gown of White Georgette Crepe over Silk, entered the drawing room leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace.

About forty guests, from outside points, were present. The bride received many beautiful gifts, showing the high esteem in which she is held.

The happy couple left on the evening train for Calgary and Banff, and afterwards will take up their residence near Monitor.

Tom's many friends, here, join in wishing he and his bride every Happiness.

The Squire's Sweetheart

BY KATHARINE TYNAN

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED
London, Melbourne, and Toronto

He opened the door of the New Cottage on such an evening scene as he was familiar with there. Mrs. Egerton was reading aloud. Her husband was sketching her. He was never tired of sketching his wife and child. In the shaded lamplight the room was charming.

He had time to recognize what Mrs. Egerton was reading—My lady seems of ivory forehead, straight nose and cheeks that be Hollowed a little mournfully, Beata nea domina!

She looked up, and Egerton looked round at the same moment. "Why Meyrick!" he said. "I thought you were gone home long ago, man. And Doll—"

The Squire came forward quickly. "Your sister was frightened," he said, and wondered at his disingenuous darning in saying so much and so little. "I waited till she was less frightened, and brought her back. She must not be alone at the cottage again. I told her she must stay here at night for the future, whatever she does by day. She has given me a right to interfere."

"Eh?" said Lionel Egerton, springing to his feet. "What is that you say? Dolly given you a right, my dear Meyrick! Is it true, Doll?"

He took his sister's half-unwilling hands and drew her into the circle of the lamplight.

"By Jove," he said, letting her go. "Dolly shows plainly enough that it is true. I'm very glad, Meyrick. I don't know any man to whom I'd rather give my little sister. Are you not pleased, Granny?"

"Of course I am pleased," said Mrs. Egerton, coldly. "I consider Dolly a very fortunate girl. Some people have all the good luck."

"Poor girl!" said her husband sympathetically. "And some people have no luck at all, except to marry a poor devil of an artist who can give them nothing but adoration, eh?"

As Dolly had well remarked, Mrs. Egerton had a way of saying the wrong thing at the wrong moment. What did the Squire care for the suggestion that he could give the girl he loved wealth and position? He knew he had Dolly's heart, and that was all he cared about.

door of 24 Chappell Place, and asked for Mr. Langton.

The servant murmured. "Mr. Langton hasn't left the dining room yet, sir," he said; "and when he does he'll be going out."

"I must see him," said Hilary stubbornly. "I know he's ordered the car for nine o'clock."

"What name, please?" asked the man with a weary air.

Hilary found a card and placed it in his hand.

"Don't look as if you'd much the matter with you neither," he grumbled, as he looked at the card. "You should wait till tomorrow, sir, and not be troubling Mr. Langton out of hours. He always sees patients from two to four."

To mark his disapproval he left Hilary standing in the hall. But he had hardly opened a door on the hand side of the hall and passed through before he was back again.

"Mr. Langton opens you will come in, sir," he said; and turned about with a disconcerted air to open the door for Hilary.

It did not need any great perception to see that the man who had stood up from the table to receive him was dead tired. His keen, dark face was pale; there were shadows about his eyes, which looked as though he had not slept. It might have been the red shade of the candles on the table that was reflected in his eyes, making them look as though they were heavily bloodshot.

He put out a hand to Hilary, who had begun to murmur an apology. Hilary forgot that he had come to bring the truth out of this man—to tell him what he was doing in keeping Margaret's whereabouts from her friends. He had been working himself up as he came along in a taxicab. He had a right to know where Margaret was. Of course she and her mother could not go back to that old care. They ought never to have endured his ill-treatment. They need not if only their friends had known.

A fine fury had burned in Hilary's breast as he thought upon Margaret's bruised arms and the little cry he had wrung from her when he had seized her somewhat roughly by the wrists. "I brought her blood into his eyes to remember it. He said to himself that old South ought to be strangled. It would be a good riddance. Earth would be well free of such a brute and tyrant."

Now he wondered as he felt himself taking Gervase Langton's hand. "I heard of you—from Margaret," Mr. Langton said. "Won't you sit down? Have a cigar? A cigarette though? A pipe is better than either."

Hilary sat down by the mahogany table in which the wine and fruit seemed to make a deep reflection. He took a cigarette and lit it. Mr. Langton was looking at him with an expression oddly compounded of humor and tragedy, as though a light played over the dark anxiety of his face. Hilary looked up and caught the expression. It made him feel suddenly as though he had not much chance with this man. The fleeting expression—he was not sure a minute after that he had not fancied it—made him feel very young and rather ridiculous.

Perhaps it showed in his face; it was a very ingenious face, so simple that in his school days Hilary Strangways had been occasionally ragged by some mischievous boy who presumed his harmlessness by his rosy cheeks and turned-up nose.

"You want to know," said Mr. Langton, in a deliberate voice which had some vague suggestion of kindness about it, "where I have hidden Margaret from you, and how I dared to take her mother from the custody of her friends."

Hilary positively blushed—but he stood his ground.

"Yes, sir," he said, with a new respect "that is exactly what I came to ask you."

"Would you like to see Margaret tonight—before you sleep?"

The suddenness and unexpectedness of the question took Hilary's breath away.

"Oh, sir," he felt once again like a small boy at the public school in the presence of the Head—"I did not hope for such a thing. I had no expectation. Naturally their friends have been anxious."

"There was greater cause when they were at Marigolds, exposed to the tender mercies of Sir Gilbert South," Mr. Langton said, with a sudden bitterness.

"We did not know—" began Hilary, stammering. "We could not have imagined such things. Do you think we would have allowed it to go on if we had known? Margaret should have told me."

"You know what Margaret is—as proud as she is spirited. Perhaps she thought no one could help her—till it was a question of saving her mother's life. Then she sent for me. Shall we call it unconventional? One does not think of the conventions when it is a question of life or death."

The clock on the chimney piece of the room began to strike nine, and Mr. Langton stood up.

"The car will be at the door," he said. "If you will come with me you shall see Margaret—unless she refuses to see you."

"I think she will see me," said Hilary, "although when last I saw her she parted in anger."

Mr. Langton smiled; through the smile his eyes kept their look of a lonely sadness and suffering.

"She told me," he said, "and I told her it was not fair. She owed you an explanation, seeing that you were friends. You did not take her the right way young man."

Hilary followed Mr. Langton to the motor car, which was at the door. He was feeling strangely taken aback. He had come, saying to himself that he would force the secret of Margaret's hiding place out of this man; and lo, and behold, they were on their way to Margaret, without any hint being said on his part to bring about such a thing. The bouleversement made him feel unready, while he had a desire to apologize to Mr. Langton, and yet, he said to himself that it would be time enough to do that when he knew more of what was going on. Hilary had always held a grievance, tenaciously once it had been formed, which, fortunately, was very seldom.

"If her mother dies," said Mr. Langton, suddenly, "what is to be come of Margaret?"

"Oh, sir," said Hilary, shocked, "I hope there is no danger of that."

"There is always danger when the heart is in such a precarious condition as Lady South's," he spoke the name as though he were unaccustomed to it and did it with distaste. "And there are complications."

He sighed heavily. "If Lady South were to die Margaret could never return to her father. I need not tell you that she is high-spirited. I wish her poor mother had had something of Margaret's spirit; but she had been frightened. Her timidity has entangled us in trouble. Margaret would have had it out with her father. I should have walked up to the door of Marigolds and said my say to that old wretch. Poor Lady South was in a panic. We had to save her as she would let us or not at all."

The Sultan of Turkey sends word to Berlin that he will stand by his allies until death.
His allies too are prepared to see that he does it.

Maybe there are no food prirates, but that sixty per cent raise in the price of cornmeal just after the government advises its use as a substitute for wheat flour, leaves considerable room for doubt.

With the late spring and the continual winds and lack of rain, the crops are away behind in growth, at this time of the year. Crops sown on breaking and summer fallow are not suffering to the same extent as the other crops, but rain is needed, and is needed right at this stage of the game.

Watch for the Gray-Dort

There was a man who fancied that by driving good and fast
He'd get his car across the track before the train came past, He'd miss the engine by an inch, and make the train hands sore;
There was a man who fancied this:
there isn't any more.

Watch the Gray-Dort

Offhand, in reply to the question of when and where a man should remove or lift his hat, we would say it should be removed when mopping the brow, when taking a bath, when going to bed, when eating, when taking up a collection, when getting your hair cut, when having a shampoo, when standing on your head.

War's Woeful Waste

The tremendous losses which have been suffered by agriculture in Europe during the first year of the war baffles imagination. In France alone, in the part invaded by Germany it is estimated that 610,000 horses, 1,500,000 head of cattle, 1,600,000 sheep, 200,000 pigs and 3,000,000 fowl were destroyed. In Belgium the damage to agriculture amounted to over 280,000,000, including about 130,000,000 for cattle and other domestic animals slaughtered.

A Boon for the Bilious—The liver is a very sensitive organ and easily deranged. When this occurs there is undue secretion of bile and the acid liquid flows into the stomach and sours it. It is a most distressing ailment, and many are prone to it. In this condition a man finds the best remedy in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are warranted to speedily correct the disorder. There is a better medicine in the entire list at pill preparations.

"It's easy to borrow trouble."
"Naturally. Every one has more of than he wants."

Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd.
Gents—I have used your Minard's Liniment in my family and also in my stables for years and consider it the best medicine obtainable.

Yours truly,

Proprietor Roxton Pond Hotel and Livery Stables.

Thomas—Do you think the fighting nations will cede any territory?
Fete—Why, they're all planting acres by the millions.

Complete in itself, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator does not require the assistance of any other medicine to make it effective. It does not fail to do its work.

Traffic Cop (to speed-law breaker)—You'll get $50 for this in the morning.

Motorist—Glad to hear it. I need the money.

Are You Tied Up Indoors?

If so, your whole system naturally gets tied up too. A lazy liver and constipated bowels are bad things, dangerous things. Exercise as much as you can—but keep your liver and bowels up to the mark all the time.

Take one pill regularly—until you are sure you are all right again.

The New World's Part

New World Steps in to Restore the Balance of the Old

"I called the New World into existence," Foreign Minister Canning declared in his speech of December 12, 1826. "That was the speech, acknowledging the British patriarchy of the Monroe Doctrine. Its sequel has come following President Wilson's address proclaiming the principle of the Monroe Doctrine for the use of the whole world. In his speech in parliament on April 18, 1917, Andrew Bonar Law, in behalf of all the people of the British Empire and the allied countries, welcomed the participation of the United States in the war at its crisis in these words: 'The new world has stepped in, to restore the balance of the old.'—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The England of To-day

The Spirit of Liberty That Guides and Defends It

The England of today is not the England which under a German king and a weak ministry, blundered into the fatal error of attempting to tyrannize over the American colonies. England now exhibits the same spirit as that which sustained Washington and Lafayette. It is battling heroically for human rights. In spite of the interior has received a check for $1,003 from the Doukhobor section at Gravel Lake, Saskatchewan. It is to be applied to the Belgian Orphan Fund.

City Eye Specialists Tell How To Strengthen Eyesight 50% In a Week's Time In Many Instances

Eye Prescription For Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Boston, Mass.—Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, those who wear glasses will be glad to know that Doctors and Eye Specialists now agree there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored, and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses, and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle. A lady who used it says: 'The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses. Another woman writes: 'I was bothered with eye strain caused by overwork and tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I wore glasses for several years, both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now, and have discarded my long distant glasses altogether. I can count the number of automobiles on the main street now, which for several years I could not express my joy at what it has done for me.'"

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and without expense of ever getting glasses.

Dr. Beck, an eye specialist of nearly twenty years practice, says: "A patient came to me who was suffering from Biorhinitis Marginalis with all the concomitant symptoms, and in the aggravation of the lids, chronic conjunctivitis and epiphora." Her eyes when not congested had the dull, nuttiness expression common to such cases. Having run out of her medicine, she suggested Bon-Opto. She used this treatment and not only overcame her distressing condition, but strange and amazing as it may seem, so strengthened her eyesight that she was able to dispense with her distance glasses and her headache and neuritis left her. In this instance I should say her eyesight was improved 100%."

Dr. Smith, an oculist of wide experience, says: "I have treated in private practice a number of serious ophthalmic diseases with Bon-Opto and am able to report ultimate recovery in both acute and chronic cases. Mr. B. came to my office suffering with an infected eye. The condition was so serious that an operation for excision seemed imperative. Before resorting to the operative treatment I prescribed Bon-Opto. In 24 hours the infection had lessened, inflammatory symptoms began to subside, and in seven days the eye was cured and retained its normal vision. Another case of extreme convergent strabismus (crossed eyes) escaped the surgeon's knife by the timely use of your collyrium. The tightened external muscles yielded to the softening of the action had been removed of foreign bodies and applied locally to all burns, ulcers and spots on the eyeball or the lids for its therapeutic effect. By cleansing the lids of secretions and acting as a tonic for the eyeball itself, the vision is rendered more acute, hence the number of cases of discarded glasses."

Dr. Conner says: "My eyes were in bad condition owing to the severe strain arising from protracted microscopical research work. Bon-Opto used according to directions rendered a surprising service. I found my eyes remarkably strengthened, so much so I have put aside my glasses without discomfort. Several of my colleagues have also used it and we are agreed as to its results. In a few days, under my observation, the eyes of an astigmatic case were so improved that glasses have been discarded by the patient."

Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of Bon-Opto and if you want to strengthen your eyes, go to any drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start, and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: A city physician to whom the above article was submitted writes: "This is a remarkable eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known, and are especially and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork and fatigue. It is a most reliable remedy in cases of weak, watery, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision, and eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family. Bon-Opto is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances, or refund the money. It is dispensed by all good druggists in this city, including the McInnes Drug Co., Calgary, the Vancouver and Owl Drug Co., Vancouver, and McCullough Drug Store, Winnipeg."

Artillery Steel

Modern high-power guns could not be built without steel strong enough to resist the enormous pressures to which they are subjected, says the Wall Street Journal. How great these pressures are is beyond ordinary comprehension.

At each discharge of a gun, in the case of field pieces, for less than three-tenths of a second the pressure exceeds twenty tons to the square inch, and the speed of the projectiles leaving the muzzle is more than 2,500 feet a second. The energy developed is placed at about 500,000 foot-pounds; in other words, considering the cannon a motor working during an exceedingly brief time, its rating is about 20,000,000 horse power.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS OF GREAT VALUE

Mrs. J. A. Legace, Ste. Perpetue, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have been of great value to me and I would strongly recommend them to other mothers." Thousands of other mothers say the same thing. They have become convinced through actual use of the Tablets that nothing can equal them in regulating the bowels and stomach; driving out constipation and indigestion; breaking up colds and simple fevers; expelling worms and curing colic. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Democracy Imperilled

So long as there is in the world a warlike Germany, so long as there is a nation of prey, a country bent on oppression, on treachery, and violence, so long will democracies be imperilled. If they would save the treasures of civilization and the heritage of mankind which are theirs, they must meet the danger, they must be ready, they must arm themselves, but with the purpose never to place the sword at the service of aught but the right.—From M. V. Lian's Speech in New York.

An open letter to the members of the Alberta Legislature.

Sirs:-

At the present time there are 3500 men and women engaged in the teaching profession in this province. This number is increasing annually, but unfortunately, owing to the meagre salaries and the opportunities offered by business and other professions, the number of male teachers is rapidly decreasing. Nearly five hundred teachers have enlisted, and several have made the supreme sacrifice. Thus in the future, there will be all too few male teachers and the average length of service is less than three years and in many rural districts less than two years.

The question at once arises, what can be done to make the profession more permanent?

There are two solutions, namely, larger salaries and superannuation allowances.

During the past three years in the larger centres, salaries have been stationary or decreasing, while the high cost of living has enormously increased. Similar conditions have prevailed in Great Britain and the other Canadian provinces.

Despite war conditions, the government of England is considering a very large increase in educational expenditure for the coming year. Fifteen millions of dollars will provide for increase of salaries, while eighteen millions, seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars is asked in order to put secondary education within the reach of every child. The Province of Ontario has also been grappling for several years with the problem of decreasing the constant changes in the teaching profession. It was finally decided that the establishment of a pension fund would influence teachers to remain in the profession, so at the last session of the provincial parliament, a superannuation scheme was adopted. The fund will be supported by equal contributions from the government and teachers.

If something is not done in Alberta, these conditions may become worse, and will certainly affect the efficiency of our educational system. At the convention of our Provincial Association, in 1916, a committee was appointed to consider pension schemes for teachers, and to report their findings at the next convention. An extensive general report was submitted and unanimously adopted. The committee was re-appointed for the purpose of considering a scheme suitable to the province, which would offer sufficient inducements to the teachers to remain in the profession.

After one year's careful consideration, during which several conferences were held, the committee drew up a scheme of Insurance combined with Annuities, which we believe will in many respects answer the purpose. This report herewith enclosed and now in the hands of every teacher, was submitted to the Educational Association at their convention last Easter, and was adopted together with the principles of the scheme. The committee, as a representative of the 3500 teachers, was unanimously requested by the convention to lay the whole matter before the Government of the Province.

We ask you, Sir, to give this report your careful attention and consideration and would appreciate an expression of your views on this question which affects the present and the future welfare of the many teachers in your constituency.

On behalf of the Teachers of Alberta, we are, Sir,

Faithfully yours,

J. A. Fife, Chairman,
S. J. Dymond, Secretary
Alberta Teachers' Pension Com.

AN APPEAL TO EVERY CANADIAN TO RECOGNIZE DUTY OF THE HOUR

THE FOOD SUPPLY WILL BE THE VITAL FACTOR

Government Urges Farmers to Maintain their Efforts Towards Increased Food Production, and All who Assist in this Work Are Rendering an Incalculable Service to the State

Two years ago, in a message to the farmers of Canada, special emphasis was laid on the important part production and distribution would play in this world war. It was pointed out that the drafting of twenty millions of men into European battlefields and the destructive process of war itself must inevitably be followed by diminished production and enhanced cost of food. Today Rumania, Poland, Belgium are conspicuous and tragic examples of what these things mean. The German food ration is now half the normal requirement and under the steady pressure of British sea power the Hun is daily tightening his belt. But though the great stress is on the Central Powers, other nations are feeling the strain. The smaller neutral countries are confronted with food shortage and high prices. Switzerland and Holland, in arms for defence, feed from their own scanty supply thousands of refugees who, homeless and destitute, have fled thither for sanctuary. England, menaced by an ever-increasing submarine warfare, is organizing her agriculture on a new basis, enlisting for her farms the services of women and disabled soldiers, and putting her beautiful and historic parks under the plough. France sows her grain and reaps her harvest, even within the sound of the guns, by the heroic and unceasing labor of her old men women and children.

Such is the picture of Europe at this hour. Facing the fateful days which lie before us in this third and sternest year of war we realize with increasing clearness how vital a factor in the final decision the food supply must be. The government of this country fully appreciates what the farmers have done during the past two years. In urging them to maintain their efforts, though confronted with many difficulties and temptations, I do it, not because of the high prices which will doubtless hold for nearly all food products, but because of the important and special service which Canadian agriculture can render the Empire at this juncture. All who assist in this work render a great service to the state. I do not say the greatest, for that is done by those who, facing death, daily serve their country at the battle front. Thousands of us cannot serve, but we, who are mercifully free from the iron heel of the invader—we, who know nothing of the terrors by sea and the privations on land which others suffer, may well redouble our efforts to supply what they may sorely need.

I especially appeal in this critical year to those in our cities and towns who hitherto have not felt the necessity for directing their energies to food production. Individual efforts in the aggregate mean much. By applying their labor to uncultivated land near their homes, or by assisting the farmers, everybody having health can accomplish something. There is need, not only for an increased supply but for an efficient force of food. If all labor is not efficient there can at least be patience and forbearance where partial efficiency is accomplished by willingness. There is no place in the state now for either half-hearted service or ill-founded criticism. In the country co-operation should be the watchword. The Dominion and provincial departments of agriculture are already giving, and will continue to give, special attention to the many problems involved. The National Service Board and the municipalities are also devoting their energies to these questions, and I am confident that the various organizations, both of men and women, throughout the country will give whole-hearted and active support to work which at this special time is a high and necessary national service.—Murray Burrell, Minister of Agriculture.

What the Yukon Has Given

Over six hundred men have come from Dawson since the war began. Many walked long distances to enlist. In 1914 the first band of men from the Yukon began to train, and eventually went to France, and with distinction. The latter word is used advisedly, for seven men in the Motor Gun Detachment won the Military Medal, the captain was awarded the Military Cross, and a number were promoted. Now a new band of men is in England in training. The Yukon Infantry company, C.E.F., in command of Captain George Black, better known as the Commissioner of the Yukon Territory, who has as a corporal Lyman Murray Black, his son.

Canada the World's Granary Can Raise More Grain Than the Whole World Combined Excepting U. S.

Canada's total grain crop for 1915 totalled 10,194,609,250 bushels, with a value of $800,000,000, according to figures recently published. More conservative figures place the grain crop value for 1915 at $600,000,000. It is interesting to note that the grain crop of Canada is worth more than the whole metallic produce of the United States, as is shown elsewhere in charts in these issues.

The big 1915 grain crop of Canada was gathered in from less than 10 per cent. of the arable land of the Dominion. This means that it would be possible to grow in Canada a grain crop worth $800,000,000. The total tilled area in Canada in 1915 was 37,263,000 acres.

The wheat yield of Canada last year was 376,303,600 bushels with a value of $325,000,000, which is an increase of 215,023,600 bushels over 1914. The average yield per acre last year was 28.98 bushels, as compared with 16.67 bushels for the previous year.

Canada produces more wheat in proportion to her population than any country in the world and is the great granary of the British Empire. Canada's exportable wheat and flour from the 1914 crop was valued at a value of $200,000,000 and the Dominion now has approximately 545 flour mills, with a daily capacity exceeding 111,865 bushels.

But large as was the 1915 wheat crop it was not in number of bushels Canada's greatest grain crop, it being exceeded by oats which gave a yield of $20,303,000, which is a value of $70,894,000. Though the oat crop in number of bushels exceeded the wheat crop by a big margin, the cash value of the wheat crop was the greater. Canada's oat crop in 1915 showed a gain over the 1914 crop of over 200,000,000.

There were other grain crops which also helped to swell the 1915 yield and which are among the important annual productions of the Dominion. For example, the barley wheat crop of Rumania and there are other equally creditable comparisons which can be made.

With only a small part of the arable land in cultivation Canada can increase its wheat and other grain output to ten times the 1915 production. Such a production would make it possible for the Dominion to raise as much grain as all the other countries of the world combined, with the exception of the United States.

Service Cards Reach Million and a Half Men

Militia Minister Has Made Return as to Results

In the house of commons in answer to a question by Fred Pardee, member for West Lambton, the minister of militia gave out information concerning answers received from the National Service cards. The total number of replies secured was 1,545,360. Classified as "military prospects" the totals were as follows: Between 17 and 30 years of age, single, with no dependents, 58,897; between 17 and 30 single, with no dependents, but engaged in agriculture, shipbuilding, munitions, or mining, 40,185; between 31 and 45, single, with no dependents, 13,624; 41 to 45 single, no dependents but engaged in agriculture, shipbuilding, munitions, or mining, 11,525; 17 to 45 single, with dependents 92,469; 17 to 45 married and single with dependents, but engaged in agriculture etc., 97,995. Total military prospects of which 40 per cent. are engaged in agriculture, shipbuilding, munitions or mining, 364,470.

The statement declared that the entire male population might be considered agricultural prospects, 184 men had given their trade as ship building, while 4,010 men had declared themselves as tool makers, tool setters, etc., and many of these had been employed in this service since sending in their cards.

The statement continued as follows: Under the order-in-council each director is authorized to decide whether or not in any particular case the services of an individual are more important to the state in civilian than in military capacity. Having regard to these provisions no effort has been made up to the present to determine which work may or may not be regarded as non-essential, the circumstances of each particular case have been considered as occasion has necessitated."

—Mrs. O. M. Rimes, Ridgway, Penn.

Big Money in Wool

Settlers in Western Canada who went in for sheep raising a few years ago are now reaping the reward of their foresight. Wool has gone to the highest prices on record and is still going up. Mr. Samuel Drumheller, of Drumheller, Alberta, sold his 1916 clip a few days ago to a Boston firm at 45¢ per pound, net, the usual dockage. Mr. Drumheller's clip amounted to about 25,000 pounds.

How German Promises to Exiled Belgians Was Kept

The truth regarding the treatment of deported citizens from Belgium while in the employment of Germans in Germany is coming to the light. It is a grisly story, a story of misrepresentation and cruelty. The following is part of a long document which the government of Belgium has been allowed to "neutral countries throughout the world, and is therefore ear-marked as an official document."

"There was in the camp a labor bureau visited by all the employees of the surrounding towns. Some of us, unable to stand the regime of the camp any longer, and hoping to be able to escape more easily if we were not under immediate military supervision, consented to work in the Mammann munition factory at Gelsenkirchen. A daily salary of 8 to 12 marks was promised, out of which 2 marks 60 pfennigs would be taken for our board and lodging. We were to be allowed to correspond with our relatives in Belgium, and to receive parcels from them. Leave after two months in order to go to Belgium was promised, with definite release after four months. But after a few days' work we soon realized that none of these promises would be kept, and that the Belgians never reached their destinations, and our salary was not paid. They took 3 marks 25 pfennigs for our board, and after six weeks at Gelsenkirchen only 8 marks 50 pfennig were given to us—one day's wages."

The writer of this document succeeded in escaping to Holland.

She—Even in his school days I want my boy to be an American through and through.

The Professor—Well, madam, few of my class are more thoroughly unprepared.

Germany's efforts to "Kulturize" the occupied districts of France and Belgium by the introduction of German "system and organization" reached such a degree that the civil population was subjected to fines of the most extortionate amounts if their watches and clocks did not agree to within a few seconds of the official time established by the "Kommandatur."

Every new town retaken by the French armies reveals fresh facts regarding the slave-like system employed by the Germans to "Germanize" the local inhabitants.

Officers had the right to stop any civilian on the street and demand that he show his watch. If the hands varied even to the slightest degree from the "German official time" as carried by the other, the unfortunate civilian was heavily fined.

Officers could also enter private houses to look at clocks. If the latter did not have enough "German system and organization" to register the hour as fixed by the "Kommandatur" the unfortunate house owner was subjected to a fine and was obliged to account to confiscation of property.

While the system of fines originally was ostensibly for the purpose of bringing the occupied districts to the German standard of "discipline" system and organization, this pretext has now been completely abandoned. Forced as the Germans now are to realize that they cannot hold indefinitely the occupied districts of France and Belgium, the fine system is now being used for the open purpose of extorting the last penny while they still have it in their power to enforce the extortion.

At Brussels alone the fines now being imposed are declared to amount to millions of francs every month.

Some idea of the nature and amount of these fines can be secured from the following cases in towns recently retaken by the French.

At Guivry, two horses were in some mysterious manner injured in a stable. For this four inhabitants who knew nothing about the affair were found guilty, and forced to pay 2,000 marks.

At Ugly-le-Gay a house was burned down by the Germans themselves. Nevertheless, they charged that the owner had set fire to the structure. The village as a whole was held responsible and forced to pay 10,000 marks.

At the same village a civilian was heavily fined for driving a horse which the Germans declared was not sufficiently curbed. As a search of the man's premises failed to reveal sufficient money to pay the fine, he was given fifteen days in prison.

Failure in every instance to produce the amount of cash fined by the Germans in the following followed either by deportation or long prison sentences.

At Channy three prominent citizens were imprisoned. An order was then made to release them, followed by the surrender of a certain amount in municipal bonds. These three men finally secured, whereupon the Germans decided to release them on the amount demanded in cash instead of bonds, refused to accept the latter, and confined the three men in a herring room where they followed a bedding and a diet of a pint of coffee in the morning and a piece of bread in the evening.

The men were kept in this condition until friends succeeded in raising in the neighboring villages the sum demanded.

Up to date five cemeteries have been found—at Bray Saint Christophe, Champion, Amy, Bourguignes and Crapeaumesnil where all of the more promising looking tumors had been dynamited and the coffins stripped not only of the metal lining but of any objects of silver that adorned them. Not in a single instance were the bodies ever placed back in the tombs and it can only be supposed that the remains were scattered to the four winds.

To Massacre Jews

Policy of Ruthlessness to be Adopted in Palestine

Serious news of a threatened massacre of the Jews in Palestine has been received by the Jewish Chronicle. The paper says that thousands are literally starving without the possibility of obtaining food, but, added to that, the Turkish government appears to have entered on a course of calculated brutal ruthlessness against our people.

The Turkish governor, Djelmah Pasha, has proclaimed an intention of the authorities to wipe out mercilessly the Jewish population of Palestine. The paper continues the Chronicle. "His published statement is that the Armenian policy of massacre is to be applied to the Jews."

About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all.
